DEMOCRATIC GENERAL COMMITTEE—Hard-Shell.

Message of the Governor of Maryland.—The inauguration of Gov. Lignon took place at annapolis. Md. on Wednesday, in the presence of both branches of the Legislature. His Excellency delivered his message, of which the following is an abstract:

The Governor is impressed with the responsibilities of his position, and piedges himself to maintain the honor and dignity of the State. The people are congratulated upon the general properity that now exists, and the late reforms are approved of. An elective Judiciary is strongly recommended. A perfective system of education is commended to the attention of the Legislature, and also the further premotion of the agricultural interests of the State.

The Governor intimates that it would not be policy at present to reduce the system of texation. The favorable position of Maryland with the General Government is matter of rejoicing.

The attention of the Legislature is commended toward internal improvements, manufactures, &c. He desires that they should be entirely free from political interference.

The Governor considers the election of President Pierce evidence of the progressive principles of Democracy.

Maryland is congratulated on her position relative to Slavery, which at all times is deemed critical. The States Rights principles are maintained by Gov. Lignon, and all attempts at disunion are strongly condemned and denounced. In the support of his views, the Governor relies upon the intelligence of the members of the Legislature and the people generally. YOUNG MEN'S TAMMANY COMMITTEE.
The Junior Committee of the Soft Shells met at Tammany Hall last evening, and adjourned, without organizing, to Wednesday evening next.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The organization of the new Board of Education took lace on Wednesday evening, at the first meeting of the place on Wednesday evening, at the first meeting of the Board.

The new Commissioners assembled punctually at the hour of 5 o'clock, and on motion, ARRAHHA D. Wilson, of the Fifth Ward, was chosen Chairman for the temporary organization of the Board. The new Commissioners were then qualified. Commissioner Phillips of the Eighth Ward moved that a majority of all the members of the Board be necessary to a choice. Amended by Mr. Adams representing the Tenth Ward that a majority of the votes cest be sufficient for a choice. The amendment was carried.

Dr. Jones and Mr. Adams were appointed Tellers, and the Board proceeded to vote. Erastus C. Benedict, Esq. the late President, was declared elected by a vote of 38 members, there being 16 scattering votes.

A Committee of two, consisting of Dr. Hibbard and Mr. Ransom, was appointed by the Chairman, to conduct the President elect to the Chair. On taking the Chair, Mr. Benedict said:

Ransom, was appointed by the Chairman, to conduct he President elect to the Chair. On taking the Chair, Mr. Benedict said:

For this expression of your respect and confidence, I hardly know how to thank you as I should. To the Board of Education is confided the most important trust that the people of this City have to bestow. And as being chosen the fifth time to preside over its deliberations. I may well say that it is an hener of which I shall be proud as long as I remember it. But without the kindness, the forbearance and cooperation which, in previous Boards, I remember with gratitude, and what I am sure you will not hesitate to extend to me, I cannot hope to perform my duties to your satisfaction. For myself, I can only promise faithfulness and impartiality in my endeavors to deserve the flattering implications which are forced upon my mind by this renewed act of favor from those who have before labored with me in this cause, and by the confidence so generously given me in advance by those who are strangers to me.

At no previous period has the Board entered upons, important duties as are now before it. There is now, for the first time, a complete and harmonious fusion of the two great systems of common schools, which have, heretofore divided the attention of the friends of public education. No one who has been at all familiar with the details of its administration for the last few years, can have failed to see that many wants have been left unsupplied, many imperfactions have been allowed to remain, and many reforms and improvements have been unattempted, because their was no means to secure general and uniform action by the harmonious powers of a united system. We enter upon this year analistrated by any feelings of rivairy, of jealousy, or aversion. There is no longer a double system—two reparate lines of schools. We are not two hodies, each disposed to vaunt its own set of agencies; but we are one in body, in property and power—it will be our own fault if we are not one in patriotic and zealous devation to the cause of popular education. Upon us is now the responsibility of doing what the difficulties and the impracticabilities of the past have thrown forward upon us, and the increased power of the present has enabled us to do. I hope I shall not be considered as presuming too far upon my position, in venturing to call your attention to some matters which seem to me important.

It cannot be denied that our gallantry, if not our sense of justice is in fault, in relation to the gentler sex, whom the order of nature, as well as the regulations of all civilized communities, have compelled to rely for protection upon our affectionate sympathies. Our system of public instruction has, indeed, opened to them a career—if such a word be not inappropriate—in the direct line of their natural sympathies and peculiar instincts—the care and education of children. But while for our own sex we have provided, in our system of Free Schools, the means of the highest instruction and cultivation, to fit young men for those various walks of life, to which all look as an elevation and a high reward, we have done much less for our gentler and more dependent sisters. For the storner realities, the higher aims and the more masculine tastes of our sons we have provided in the Free Academy all that can be desired, but for our daughters, we have no provision except for the mere rudimental branches of education in the Common Schools—nothing for their appropriate tastes, and for their peculiar destiny—nothing to give them those arts of higher grace and taste, and various attraction, which so eminently cultivate them in the line of their proper charms, and which we always admire so much and prize so highly, however we may consider the more substantial and humbler rudiments of the first necessity.

The law which authorized the Free Academy, made no distinction between the sexes. It did not direct this Board in this respect, to in this respect, to pass airciny by, winner her pupils of the Common Schools, and to offer to our sex alone, advantages which should be enjoyed equally by all. It should be now, one of our first duties, to provide for girls an Institution of the same relative grade as the Free Academy.

Connected with this subject is that of requiring the sexes to be taught in different buildings, which seems to be demanded by many considerations of economy and propriety. If on examination the Board should, as I do, deem it a desirable reform, it can be easily effected by appropriating one school house to girls alone, and another to boys, and in that case I suggest a division into three classes of schools in the same building—Primary, Grammar and High Schools. This will secure a much better classification and gradation of our schools, and a much greater unity of organization and instruction. Our system of Pablic Schools would then consist of the Primary School, the Grammar School, the High School, the Normal School, and the Academy.

I say the Normal School, for without active arrangements for asupply of competent teachers, no school system can be complete. We have now, in our Saturday School, arrangements of giving instruction to teachers actually employed in schools during the other days in the week, and who need or desire further instruction. But this City, with lie great system of popular education, should not be without a proper Normal School, in which those who design to adopt the profession as teacher, may be properly and thoroughly educated for and trained in that profession—all the pupils, by turns, acting as teachers at stated intervals in the Common Schools. Such a school is as necessary a part of a common schools, such as school as an excessary apart of a common schools, such as school is as necessary apart of a common schools, which were the schools and they school be a many prepare the plans of the pupils, by turns, acting as teachers, which means the pupils by turns, acting as teachers, and the respective schools

MEETING OF THE 'LONG-SHOREMEN'S SOCIETYA special meeting of the Long Shoremen's Society was held at No. 5 Chatham-square, on Wednesday evening. John Williams, its President, in the Chair. There was a full attendance, as it was the last meeting to be held pravious to the second annual ball, on the 17th inst., at Castle Garden, for the benefit of the Widow's and Orphan's Fund of the Society. There are already about 1,600 lickets disposed of for the occasion. Their first ball was held in Tammany Hall last winter, and the Old Wigwam was not large enough to conveniently accommodate the company. The President and Mr. John McGrath addressed the Society, taking a general view in their remarks of the rise and position of the Society, and exhorting its members to maintain their advantageous position and good character as members of this organization and as individuals. The Society now numbers about 960 members, and has in the treasury $2,600. It has in its care the widows and orphane of sixteen deceased brethren. It is hoped to realize $1,000 by this ball for their benefit. Several new members were added to the Society on Wednesday evening. MEETING OF THE LONG-SHOREMEN'S SOCIETY

A meeting of Printers, Bookbinders, Stereotypers and others connected with the trade, was held at the Rooms of the Printers Library for the purpose of assisting in carey-fing out the arrangements made by the New York Typographical Society for the celebration of Franklin's Birthday. Mr. Peter C. Baker briefly stated the object of the meeting, and the approaching festival—aid for the Printer's Free Library; and that from the preparations already made the Festival on the 17th inst. would at least equal those of previous years. Several of our most popular speakers are expected to be present to respond to toasts, and the Banquet in every respect promises to afford an interesting required to the trade and all interested in the typographical profession.

Flooging in a Sculot.—Dr. J. C. Fitch, Principal of the Seminary at South Windham, gave one of his scholars, a lad about 17 years of age, a severe flogging on the 21st ult., after which he was taken with internal bleeding, and other symptoms of disease or injury, and is now, we hear, lying quite low. It has created a warm feeling in some portions of the community against Dr. Fitch, and it is said the relatives of the boy, residents of the vicinity of Boston, but now on here to take care of him, are only waiting to know more fully the result, to commence legal proceedings against him. Others are of the opinion that the boy was diseased before, and that his present illness is not the result of the flogging. The master thought the boy had told a story, and he punished him to make him coafees it. But we believe he had to give it up at last, the boy sticking to his first assertion. There seems to be no doubt that the flogging was very severe. He used stoutrods, and cut the lad a coat into rags on his back. So we are informed in the most reliable manner. [Willimantic (Conn.) Revival is a Printentary.—For sometime past the Keejer of the Kentucky State Prison has been in the habit of lecturing the immates every Sunday morning. Several of the prisoners gave such evidence of concern on the subject of religion that induced the keeper to write to the Rev. J. D. Black, of Scott County, and other ministers, to visit the prison, on the third Lord's day of December.

Mr. B. arrived en Saturday evening, and on Sunday morning repaired to the prison chapel, a room about forty by sixty feet. At the hour of 11 they met again, and after the preaching of a short discourse, an opportunity was given for those that wished to designate themselves as seckers after religion. Several came up and made a public profession of their faith, while many were di

MEETING OF THE EMPLOYING CONFECTIONERS.

There was a meeting of the employing Confectioners last evening, at the Fourteenth Ward Hotel, which was well attended. W. W. Ragg, of the Eighth av., presided; and Thomas Davies was appointed Secretary.

The object of the meeting was to take into consideration the wholesale prices of Confectionary—they having been so low lately that the manufacturers cannot afford to conduct their business without an advance of prices.

Thomas Davies moved that the wholesale price of cut drops be 14c. per pound; pan-work, 16c.; almonds and cinns mon strings, 18c., and broken candies 1s. per pound.

Mr. Spotten of the Bowery, moved as an amendment that the prices of stick candles be 14c.; pan-work, 12[c. almonds and cinnamon strings, 20c.; lozenges, 25c., and cut drops 16c. per pound.

There sprang up some discussion pending these motions, in which the general sentiment was that if they were to advance the prices of their work, and at the same time increase its quality and finish, their cu tomers and the public would be satisfied with the advance. The importance of all the manufacturers of confectionery entering into any arrangement that should be agreed to by those present, was remarked upon. It was said that in 1835 there was an sdvance of nearly 50 per cent. on prices, and there appeared to be no less work than there was previous to the advance. It was also said by one, and others coincided with him, that of late the more they sold the poorer they became. Mr. Themas Davies then took the floor and proposed to advance his proposition.

Mr. Willinsdorff of Brooklyn, and Mr. Weston of New-York, both stated that they had been getting advanced prices for the last three or four months—ever since the raise in the price of sugar. The motion to advance the price was adopted by a unanimous vote. These prices are to take effect on the 1st of February. The above motion was reconsidered, and finally the following polka brisk; the Saltarelle marked by the usual command of pianoism of the author and elegant fluency of ideas.

Sad Accounts from the Ionian Islands inform us that Zante and Cephalonia are in a most deplorable condition. The fadure of the current crop for two successive years, has cut off the only supply from which the inhabitants of those two islands, in particular, derive their main support. The land owner and the laborer are both suffering under such a calamity; but it is in the latter that want with its attendant horrors weighs heavily, and is crushing them to death. Their circumscribed condition in a physical as well as in a social sense, renders them helpiess in their prosent misfortune. Any work which could offer the seasty remuneration of twelve cents per day, would, under existing circumstances, be halled by thousands as a most propitious and heaven sent boon. But there are no factories to employ the callous hand of the sturdy agriculturist, and it must drop with weakness by his side until death relieves his sufferings. The relief also that might be obtained by spreading out, and thus rendering the intensity of suffering less observable, is rendered very difficult by the liquid element which locks them up in their native island. The Zantiotes, in particular, are well known throughout Greece as the most industrious, active, laborious and thrifty husbandmen of that part of the world, and yet even their deem also seems inevitable, and starvation is already preying upon that hardy race. During last autumn wild fruits and herbs growing in the fields constituted their food, but dreary winter has deprived them even of their miserable pittance. The Ionian Government has offered to many a free passage to Corfe, where the olive crop promised well this year, and where they might find employment in helping their fellow islanders to get in their crop. This measure will no doubt afford some relief, however small, to the sufferings of many. Hundreds have already availed themselves of it, and our correspondent tells in Clinton st., on Tuesday evening, when various reports and statements were presented, embracing the transactions of the Association for the past year. From the Treasurer's report it appears that the total receipts amount to $2,352-30; expenses, $2,082-90; leaving on hand, $869-40. The total number of Bibles received during the year was 1,846; distributed, 1,237; sold, 191. Testaments received, 1,892; distributed, 1,359; sold, 154. The books now in the Depository of South Brooklyn, number 72 English Bibles, 301 English Testaments, 21 German Bibles, 1 French Bible, 41 German Testaments, 7 German and English Testaments, and 5 Testaments and Psalm Books.

A Nominating Committee was appointed to select officers for the ensuing year, when the Association adjourned.

beings, of all ages and sexes, leaving their sunny island in search of bread, presented a picture which drew out tears from the eyes of all who witnessed it. The disease will very probably continue for many years to come, and hence the fate of these poor children of the East promises to rival that of the Irish famine during the potato rot. Cannot the benevolent of this country devise some means by which from the abundance with which Providence has blessed us, a timely aid could be sent which may in some measure relieve their suffering? [Boston Travellor.

An Outrace.—The New Haven Palladium gives an account of the case of a poor Irish woman in that city, whe having been deprived of the little property left by her husband, came under the protection of Mr. F. W. Gibbert, to whom she was indebted for a lodging room in States 4t, and fuel, &c. for her comfort. Her religious views having changed during a year past, she neglected the Romish Church, and on Sunday she and her children attended the North Congregational Church, for which, she says, she was insulted on Monday evening, by a dozen men, and by threats of her life compelled to promuse that she would return to the Romish communion and her former friends. It seems that a subsequent visit of Mr. Gilbert relieved her from the fulfillment of this promise, and officers are in search of the persons who threatened her life. The offenders will not require more than one lesson that threats and violence are not now a days recognized as legitimate means of conversion. The Palladium adds that the little money left by the woman's deceased husband has been roccovered by legal process.
